

Confidential Student Record Information Collected/Maintained by PSD

Confidential student record information collected and maintained by PSD in its electronic data system that is not reported to the Colorado Department of Education includes the following:

Student coursework, quizzes and examinations. These are used for students to develop and practice what they are learning in their classes and to demonstrate their knowledge by applying what they have learned, and for educators to evaluate student learning and receive feedback to assist in individualized student instruction. (Note that more specific student personally identifiable information regarding coursework, quizzes and examinations is provided in the lists of school service contract providers and school service on-demand providers of school service contract providers and school service on-demand providers posted on this website.)

Results of end-of-course common assessments. These results are used to rate student achievement, track student performance, provide feedback for educators to assist in individualized student instruction, identify class trends in achievement and provide data for publishing teacher effectiveness ratings.

Collected and internal reports prepared by school nurses with respect to health services received by students through school health offices. This includes data reports concerning the administration of medicine, administration of first-aid, documentation of procedures for students on a healthcare action plan, immunization records and exemptions. This information is used to support PSD's ongoing provision of health services for individual students, to preserve information regarding those services to share with the students' other medical service providers as authorized by law and to comply with legally mandated recordkeeping requirements.

Intervention plans, and records of interventions and student progress, with respect to the implementation of PSD's multi-tiered system of supports in the areas of academics, social and emotional learning and behavior. This information is used to systematically address individual student needs to facilitate progress in meeting academic, social and emotional

Information regarding student evaluations, placement, educational disabilities and related services, special education, related services, behavior plans, accommodations, supports and modifications specified in individualized education programs (IEPs); observations, data and other information related to student IEPs and PSD's special education program; all as conducted, developed, developed and recorded under the Individuals with Disabilities

Education Act (IDEA).
